Festive Fun Facts

1. Even the Victorians liked minced beef in their Christmas mince pies! In Tudor times mince pies were made from minced lamb or mutton as well as dried fruits and spices! The meat represented the shepherds in the Christmas story and the spices the wise men.
2. Most of us like to have our Christmas dinner at home with our families helping prepare the food. In Japan, it is more normal to go out to eat, and their favourite food is fried or roast chicken which they often eat in fast food restaurants on Christmas Eve!
3. Christmas trees first became popular here in Victorian times. But long before that, in Germany in the 1500s, they used to decorate fir trees with fruit and nuts at Christmas.
4. Crab, prawns and lobster, not turkey, are among the favourite Christmas foods eaten in Spain. Like many European countries they have their special Christmas meal on Christmas Eve.
